Qualis Corporation Receives Subcontract for NASA Michoud Assembly Facility (MAF)
Manufacturing Support and Facility Operating Contract (MSFOC)

Huntsville, Ala., May 12, 2009 – Qualis Corporation announced today that it received a subcontract to provide Manufacturing Support and Facility Operating services to NASA's George C. Marshall Space Flight Center's Michoud Assembly Facility (MAF) located in New Orleans, LA. Qualis is a small business team member of Jacob's Technology Inc. that has been awarded the prime contract. The contract is a Cost Plus Award Fee, Indefinite Delivery/Indefinite Quantity (IDIQ) contract that includes a three year base period with two one year options and represents a potential maximum value of $696M if all options are exercised and all IDIQ annual maximum values are realized.

Marshall Space Flight Center manages MAF and provides a unique capability for manufacturing large aerospace structures at a single location. It has played a key role in space shuttle propulsion through the design, assembly, and manufacture of the external tank. While continuing to support the Space Shuttle Program, MAF has also been selected as the site to manufacture several major components for the Constellation Program that will return humans to the moon and send crewed expeditions to Mars and destinations beyond. MAF is one of the largest employers in Louisiana.

"We are extremely pleased to be part of the Jacobs team and we look forward to supporting Jacobs and Marshall Space Flight Center as part of this important new contract," said Elizabeth Morard, President and CEO of Qualis Corporation. "We look forward to expanding our operations to the Michoud Assembly Facility and supporting NASA's efforts to return humans to the moon and beyond."

Qualis Corporation, founded in 1993, is a woman-owned small disadvantaged business that employs more than 300 people and has 16 years of proven performance on more than 60 contracts supporting the U.S. Army, U.S. Air Force, NASA, major primes, and commercial customers. Qualis' skilled, diverse workforce in 15 states, Afghanistan, and Iraq has expertise spanning multiple disciplines including systems engineering, test and evaluation, logistics, and acquisition and program management. Qualis ranked number 1967 on the 2007 Inc. Magazine's 5,000 list of the fastest-growing private companies in the country, and ranked 1294 on the 2008 list.
